

OLD FIRM TAKES
IN NEW MEMBERSMISS LILLIE WEINMANN,
MRS. MYRTLE HOLMES AND
ARTHUR K. SCHLEGEL

Davis & Kishlar, one of Ypsilanti's oldest and respected dry goods firms, announce the addition of three new members in the firm. They are Miss Lillie Weinmann, Mrs. Myrtle Holmes and Mr. Arthur K. Schlegel. For several years they have been with this firm and have been instrumental in the small way in building up the reputation that this firm has enjoyed with the trading public. Since 1896 the name of Davis & Kishlar has been known to the people of Ypsilanti and Washtenaw county. These gentlemen have built up a substantial business in these years and now feel that the time has come to recognize those who in a measure have helped them build up the business to its present high standard.

For better than 60 years a dry goods store has been conducted in this building. It was started before the Civil war by Samuel Post, lately deceased. After conducting the business for several years Mr. Post sold it to Henderson & Glover, who later sold it to H. P. Glover. Later it was purchased by Lamb, Davis & Kishlar and in 1896 Mr. Lamb retired and from then until the present time it has been operated under the firm name of Davis & Kishlar.

The Record, with a host of friends, congratulate the new members of the firm and welcome them into Ypsilanti's business world. It is a fitting tribute to them to be recognized by the old firm for their years of loyal service and no doubt a source of great satisfaction to Messrs. Davis and Kishlar to place the reward where it rightfully belongs.

WILLIAM S. HART IN

When Will Reynolds wrote the story of "Three Word Brand," Wm. S. Hart's latest Paramount picture, which will be featured by Manager Signor at the Martha Washington theatre next Thursday and Friday, Feb. 9 and 10, he builded better than he knew. The story goes that when in search of material for a new production Mr. Hart kicked over a basket containing many rejected scenarios and plots for photoplays sent in by writers of every station in life, and all of them unknown. His eye caught a sentence in one of the synopsis written in long hand and his curiosity aroused, he read the story. Presto! His search had been rewarded, for Will Reynolds' story contained an idea which he found quite serviceable. "It's one of the best stories I ever read," said Mr. Hart as he gave orders to picture it. A check for a substantial sum was sent Mr. Reynolds, and it is quite likely he will be heard from again as a photoplaywright.

JURY DISAGREES.

The jury disagreed in the case of E. G. Wiedman vs. H. L. Wilson, tried before Judge Stadtmiller on Tuesday. The plaintiff claimed Wilson owed him for repairs. Wilson contends he is not the Wilson, but that it was some other man named Wilson. The case was set for retrial Feb. 20.

CITY TREASURER HAS COLLECTED OVER $50,000

Last Saturday was the last day for the payment of taxes without a penalty and City Treasurer Ethyl B. Van Etten and her assistant, Mrs. Lynn Schaffer, were busy Saturday at the city hall, collecting over $50,000 in taxes.

City Treasurer Van Etten stated Wednesday that she had collected to date the sum of $180,657 and that there was approximately $22,000 yet unpaid. This is an unusually fine record made in view of the fact that the taxes, especially school taxes, have been high, times hard and work scarce.

KIWANIS HEAR
REV. DUNNING IDLE

Rev. Dunning Idle, of the Methodist Episcopal church, was the speaker Wednesday at the Kiwanis meeting. He spoke on "Community Co-operation." He said:

"A man rises and falls in a community as his self-interest rises and falls. A man must co-operate and understand others in order to be useful in a community. No man amounts to anything until he falls in love. The great things in life are found in love and a spirit of community co-operation. A man's worth in a community may be estimated by his co-operation. Again no man amounts to anything until he gets married. Life, health and prosperity come from our obedience to natural laws. The greatest hindrance in every community is due to the fact that we do not understand each other better."

It was announced by President M. G. Day that Judge Murphy, of Detroit, will be the speaker on ladies' night, Feb. 14, at the Country club.

John Finch sang a group of songs, accompanied on the piano by James Breakley.

SUMMIT-NORMAL GROUPS
DINE THEIR HUSBANDS

Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Latham, 42 South Summit street, the Summit-Normal group of the Congregational church entertained their husbands to a six o'clock dinner. The men folks will testify to the dinner and you can believe that the testimony will be on the right side. The writer was there, had his portion, and was more than satisfied.

After the dinner a fine program was given, opened by Mrs. Pray, who gave a short talk in welcoming the Normal group. Marguerite Bennett gave two readings from Joe Lincoln. Miss Bloomgren, accompanied by Miss Wardrop on the piano, sang a couple of solos. Joseph Pray, accompanied by Mrs. Pray on the piano, rendered two flute solos. Dr. Sherer closed the program with an interesting talk on his travels in Hawaii, illustrating his talk with stereopticon views of the island.

The cats were good, the entertainment fine. The husbands all thank their (own) wives.

HUNTING SEASON PASSES JANUARY 31.

Jan. 31 was the last day on which wild ducks and geese, coots, gallinules and Wilson snipe or jack-snipe may be hunted anywhere in the United States under the federal law which prescribes seasons on migratory game birds. This law, which is administered by the bureau of biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, provides, however, that the carcasses of birds killed during the open season may be possessed for an additional period of 10 days following the end of the season if state or local laws do not prohibit it. The possession of carcasses of wild ducks, geese and other migratory game birds in cold storage plants after Feb. 10 renders the owners subject to prosecution in the federal courts.

HIGHWAY FUNDS ARE NOW AVAILABLE.

It is not generally understood that under the terms of the new federal highway act money made available to states under that act must be used within three years from the enactment of the law. This makes it necessary for any state which wishes to take advantage of the act to do so as soon as possible, for the appropriations under the act must all be expended by June 30, 1924.

WILL GIVE $1000.00
TO KNOW PICTURE

The R. C. Pictures corporation has a great ambition to make R. C. pictures a source of clean, wholesome, absorbing entertainment. To this end they are bending every effort of their organization. They believe they have been successful. Yet you are the ones to be pleased and you are the ones to say how well they are succeeding in their work.

In order to learn at first hand how R. C. pictures strike the fancy of the public they are offering $1,000 in cash prizes for the best 50 letters commenting on any R. C. picture.

The first prize is $200 (200 words or less) and will be awarded to the person writing the letter which in the opinion of the judges is the best letter received in this contest. The second prize is $150 for the second best letter; $100 will be paid for the third; $50 for the fourth; $35 for the fifth; $25 for the sixth, and $10 each for the next 44 best letters.

The Wuerth theatre, Ypsilanti, is showing the R. C. pictures on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, as shown in their advertisement in this issue.

In addition to the showing of R. C. pictures Mr. Northor, manager of the Wuerth theatre, will present Joy Marshall and her Quaker jazz band, consisting of eight ladies, an attraction extraordinary in synopses of synopses. Miss Marshall, the little lady with the blue eyes and curls, has often been called Detroit's Mary Pickford, and Mr. Northor feels sure that she will do more than win your confidence with her artistic cleverness the minute she steps on the stage. Miss Marshall and her Quaker jazz band will appear at the night performances only on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday and Saturday, in addition to the R. C. picture, there will be four acts of vaudeville.

These attractions are secured by the Wuerth theatre at a great expense in order to give their patrons a treat of the best.

NEW OFFICERS TO BE CHOSENWILL APPOINT HUNDREDS OF INCOME TAX
AUDITORS.

Washington, D. C.—The collection of United States internal revenue taxes is a big job. The civil service commission said in a statement issued today that more than 20,000 government employees are engaged in this work, 7,800 of whom are attached to the income tax unit. This latter figure includes more than 5,000 auditors and inspectors of income tax returns who are employed in Washington and in the field.

Notwithstanding this large force, the civil service commission states that the bureau of internal revenue needs several hundred more auditors and inspectors for the income tax unit, and that an examination to fill these positions will be held throughout the country on March 3. The entrance salaries offered range from $1,800 to $3,000 a year. Advancement will depend upon demonstrated efficiency.

New appointees are given a six-week course of training in the technicalities of the income tax law and are paid full salary during such instruction.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., or from the civil service board at the post-office or custom house in any city.

With the arrival of the period for filing income tax returns which must be filed on or before March 15, every individual should present to himself the following questions regarding his affairs during the calendar year of 1921:

What were your profits from your business, trade, profession or vocation?

Did you receive any interest on bank deposits?

Have you any property from which you received rent?

Did you receive any income in the form of dividend or interest from stocks or bonds?

Did you receive any bonuses during the year?

Did you make any profit on the sale of stocks, bonds or other property, real or personal?

Did you act as a broker in any transaction from which you received commissions?

Are you interested in any partnership or other firm from which you received any income?

Have you any income from royalties or patents?

Have you any minor children who are working?

Do you appropriate, or have the right to appropriate, the earnings of such children? If so, the amount must be included in the return of income.

Has your wife any income from any source whatsoever? If so, it must be included in your return or reported in a separate return of income.

Did you receive any directors' fees or trustees' fees in the course of the year?

Do you hold any office in a benefit society from which you receive income?

Under the new tax law enacted by the special session of the Republican congress the exemption for heads of families with incomes of less than $5,000 a year has been increased from $2,000 to $2,500, and the exemption for dependents has been increased from $200 to $400 for each dependent. Tax rates remain unchanged.

AT MARTHA WASHINGTON

That his role of the Saharan chieftain in "The Sheik," a picturization by George Melford for Paramount of the now famous novel of the same name which is the literary sensation of the current season, is the best of his screen career, is the opinion of Rudolph Valentino, who, with Agnes Ayres, Paramount star, is the featured player in the production. It will be shown at the Martha Washington theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

"I know of no more colorful role than that of the Sheik in this tremendous picture production," he said during the filming of the photoplay in Paramount's California studio. "The scenes are as wonderful as they are stupendous and romantic."

Miss Ayres was enchanted with her role—the haughty English girl tamed by a masterful son of the desert, and by love.

The Catholic Woman's club met Thursday at the clubhouse. It was a Michigan day program and papers were given showing where the early settlements were made and trading posts established. Mrs. Roy Whiting was the leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton A. Ferguson celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Friday. Mr. Ferguson is the oldest active deputy sheriff in Michigan.

Mrs. Mary Van Dusen, who sustained a bad fall, is now able to be up and around. She is past 80 years of age.

MAN STABBED IN DRUNKEN BRAWL

Wednesday evening, in a drunken brawl at the home of August Bayne, on Park street, Priest Tabor was slashed in the side and he says that Bayne did the cutting. After the fight Tabor strolled into Gotts' barber shop on East Michigan avenue and said that Bayne had stabbed him. Constable Maddux was in the shop at the time and took Tabor to the Parkview pharmacy. Later he was taken to the office of Dr. Kellogg, where the wound was dressed. He was later taken to the hospital by Chief Connors.

When officers went to the house, they found Bayne with his head cut and otherwise mugged up. Grover Bell was also in the house, but showed no signs that he had been in the fight.

Grover Bell and August Bayne were brought before Justice Stadtmiller this afternoon. Bayne was bound over to the circuit court, charged with crime of assault to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder. His bail was fixed at $2,500. Chances are he will await his trial in the county jail. Bell was sentenced to the Detroit house of correction for 65 days. Tabor is still in the hospital waiting to determine just how badly his injuries are. He will be tried as soon as he is able to get out.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN THEIR LADIES MONDAY

Monday evening the Rotary club entertained their ladies to a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the Country club. Dr. G. M. Hull had charge of the entertainment committee. He had for his able assistants Mr. and Mrs. Guy Davis, Mr. and Mrs. George Renton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lindgren, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Matthews and Mrs. Hull.

The program was very pleasing. Prof. Carl Lindgren, in his solos, and Anthony J. Whitmore, in violin solos, always a treat at any gathering, were immensely enjoyed. The orchestra rendered two fine selections and came back on encore. Mrs. Lorinda Clifford was the efficient accompanist on the piano for the evening.

Dr. Hugh Cabot, dean of the medical faculty of the university, was the speaker of the evening and gave a fine talk on community health. Hugh Van de Walker gave a short talk on the boy and girl problem, in which he told what the Rotarians were endeavoring to accomplish along these lines.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary at G. A. R. hall Friday evening. C., very kindly consented to act as installing officer, and the following officers were installed:

HOW ABOUT IT, MR. GROUND-HOG?

Today is groundhog day. If the old fellow got up early enough this morning he will be back to his winter quarters for another six weeks, as old Sol took a peep at Mother Earth about 10 o'clock and covered right up again. If he came out at the noon hour, as some say he does, well, we have an early spring. Well, we are all set, so what's the odds?

Mrs. E. M. Maddux, of Lincoln street, is slowly improving after her recent illness.

BIG AUTO SHOW
IN FULL SWINGDESPITE BAD WEATHER A LARGE CROWD OUT ON OPENING NIGHT.

Wonderful, just simply fine, and dozens of other similar expressions were heard on every side at the opening last night of the Washtenaw county dealers' auto show in the large Apex building. Despite the rain, a large crowd was in attendance and a surprise waited them on every side as they walked the entire length of the enormous building. The decorations, made by the Detroit Arts and Crafts Studio, are fitting in every way and form the right sitting for the beautiful display of cars and accessories. The officers and workers certainly should feel proud of what their efforts have brought out. It is safe to say that this show will go down in history as one of the very finest in the state, barring none.

As you step into the show room you cannot help but feel the largeness and elaborate display that is yours to inspect and marvel over. On every hand is something that is bound to interest you and bring out just what you have been dreaming of in automobiles. Every conceivable device for your car is here and courteous people to explain their merits. Trucks and tractors have space and are the centers of an admiring crowd. Ypsilanti's own make, the "Ace," looks like a million dollars and is one of the strong features in the show.

Buicks, Studebakers, Dodges, Fords, Nashs, Maxwells, Durants, Essexes, Oldsmobiles, Hupps, Overlands, Willys-Knights, Cadillacs, Cleavelands, Dorts, Franklins, Hudsons, Marmons, Reos and Lafayettes are all here for your inspection.

The show will close Saturday night of this week and will be open every afternoon and evening. Finzel's eight-piece orchestra of Detroit is furnishing the music and those attending the show will be well pleased not only with the music but the whole show. It is really a big affair and to miss it you will be sorry when you hear your friends tell of its wonders, its beautiful autos and accessories. Don't let the tide said that you were one of those who did not attend.

MICHIGAN STATE NORMAL HAS WEEK OF WINNING

The past week has been favorable to Michigan State Normal's basketball teams. Friday evening the Normal college first team defeated the Alma college quintet 29-18 in a game characterized by indifferent shooting. Both teams lacked the pep that is usually evident in games at the Normal gymnasium. The preliminary to the Alma game, between the Normal reserve five and Milan high school, was won by the Normal team, 36-24.

Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, M. S. N. C. defeated the Detroit Y. M. C. A. Business Men's club 28-23 in a hard-fought battle. The Detroit team pressed the locals so hard in the last half that Coach McCulloch was forced to change his lineup and use his first team men in the final half in order to check the old-timers.

The preliminary to the Detroit game, between the A. of H. fraternity and the Kappa Phi Alpha fraternity, was lively throughout, both societies having many enthusiastic supporters. Neither team had been defeated in the intersociety athletic contests. The A. of H. won, 20-10.

O. E. S. MASQUERADE A SUCCESS.

Lathers acted as announcer, announcing each character as they entered. The proceeds of the party will be used in social service work.

CASE WAS ADJOURNED.

The case of Adelbert Cole vs. Harry Bennis was tried Saturday before Justice D. Z. Curtis, but was adjourned until this week Thursday to give the defendant time to file a cross bill. Cole is suing for $25.00 he says Bennis agreed to give him for locating a man named Ray Counsellor in 1919. Counsellor was later arrested and sent to prison on a charge of burglary.

When two little Irish boys asked a woman in an electric machine for a ride, she looked into the upturned dirty faces and couldn't resist. While driving to the street they had designated they sat perfectly still with eyes focused straight ahead, but when they got out she heard one say: "Gee, that's better'n ridin' a ice wagon, hain't it?"

READ THE RECORD FOR COUNTY NEWS

FAIR NEWS

Campaigning for memberships is only one of the big jobs which the fair society has tackled in order to give Washtenaw county a real sure enough county fair. To begin with, it must be understood that a fair society isn't a big mythical corporation endowed by Santa Claus or Henry Ford or any other angel with millions of money with which to make a fair possible. Fairs are always started by a small group of people who feel that their community simply can't afford to get along any longer without this organized means of better agricultural and industrial development.

This group of people organizes a fair society under special acts of the legislature making such institution possible. All profits must be returned to the fair in the form of improvements. The members assume no financial responsibility.

The fair society consists of its members, who as members are entitled to certain privileges in connection with the fair and who elect the directors, who elect the officers, who have direct charge of the fair. The fair can grow exactly as fast as the support of the public permits. It is of the people, by the people and for the people. It has no stock to sell and pays no dividends. It asks no donations but offers certain investments which pay big returns in more business and greater prosperity.

The Washtenaw Fair society now has a membership of over 50 and is growing every day. The campaign is on for 500 by May 1. Life memberships may be purchased now for $25 and entitle the member to two season passes to each fair for life. Can you imagine an investment of $25 that will return more in pleasure, satisfaction and profit?

The fair society will maintain a booth at the county auto show, where the cars may be seen and memberships signed up.

Mr. Thomas Kearney, for six years a member of the state tax commission, said in an interview the other day that we may look for a big increase in farm values as soon as we have a good fair.

"I have noticed," said Mr. Kearney, "that those counties having a good fair are far ahead of the others in farm values, quality of crops and stock and especially in annual income."

Farms in Washtenaw county are not selling for as much as those of surrounding counties.

There is little of county patriotism and little community spirit and love of home compared with what there should be, and this reflects on the values of far property.

I believe there is nothing in the world that will be of as much value to the agricultural interests of the county as a good live agricultural fair.

"There has been a 200 per cent increase in interest in poultry in the county since Mr. Martin organized the Washtenaw Poultry and Poultry Stock association three years ago," said J. J. Desmond, secretary, this morning.

The fair helps the show and the show helps the fair. The organized work done by the farm bureau and county club leader has built some of the finest producing flocks in the state.

Mr. Huntington, of the Washtenaw hatchery, stated that when he first started he had hard work to get suitable eggs for his small hatchery. Now, with a capacity of 51,000, he can choose the flocks for his supply.

If some one should ask the farmers and merchants of Washtenaw county to donate a completely built county fair to one of our neighboring counties each year they probably wouldn't appreciate the compliment. That is exactly what we are doing.

In the first place we are helping pay the premiums of all the fairs of the state, getting nothing in return.

In the second place there are seven fairs located around our borders. Every Washtenaw county visitor to these fairs leaves considerable change, besides the cost of transportation. Every dollar of this is lost to the business interests of the county.

Just as big a per cent of every dollar spent in any way at the fair is kept at home to help build up the county as if spent in any retail store.

Lansing, Mich.—More emphasis on the basic educational subjects of history, arithmetic, grammar and simpler sciences and less emphasis on the technique of faddish method is the latest bit of advice just sent out by Thomas E. Johnson, state superintendent of public instruction to all the teachers in the public schools of Michigan.

Superintendent Johnson has recently been closely observing the actual teaching work in the public schools of the state and he finds that too many times it fails to hammer home with the child the important phase of a subject, simply "going around in circles" with apparently no definite purpose in view.

Making it plain that he is not a reactionary but a pronounced progressive, yet Superintendent Johnson declares he believes in "the kind of progressivism that stays on the track." He feels that too many times teachers fly off on tangents in the progressive movement and he sounds the warning that in such instances they must come back to earth again and get down to fundamentals.

He points out that fads in education come and go and generally leave some good in their wake. This, he says, is incorporated in our educational system, "but after all the big things which enter into the training of our boys and girls are those things which continue permanently from year to year, from decade to decade, from age to age. There are certain fundamentals, for example, the subjects necessary if we are to command a proper use of language, arithmetic and the simpler sciences. Methods improve, but it is essential after all if they are to be worth while that they all tend to the same end, the furnishing of boys and girls with the fundamental knowledge and training necessary to make them good citizens."

Even in the teaching of fundamental subjects Superintendent Johnson says many times the really important phases of them are not sufficiently emphasized. Rather than teach the pupil a half dozen methods for working per centage in arithmetic he would place the emphasis and time on training the pupil in modern business methods now followed by banks and commercial enterprises generally. He would place more stress on the disarmament conference of Washington and less on the theories of Cotton Mather back in old colonial days.

"Let us remember we are living in A. D. 1932," says Superintendent Johnson. "In many cases it is a matter of emphasis. The subject matter is all presented but the wrong phases are emphasized by both teacher and author. This is particularly true of English, history and arithmetic."

"Let us come back to earth and keep in mind the essential and eternal verities in education as in all other activities of life. The gods of the copybook maxims may seem at times a bit old fashioned, but they are the gods who endure."

Mrs. Richard Bird was a Detroit visitor Saturday.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.
State of Michigan, County of Washtenaw.

At a session of the Probate Court for said County of Washtenaw, held at the Probate office in the City of Ann Arbor, on the 16th day of January, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two. Present, Emory E. Leland, Judge of Probate. In the matter of first bustled into the minin' game. That was over in the Sagauche. He's an all-round cuss, but he's a stay-er. Besides, you roughed him up sort o' hrtful this mornin', and he's got that to make him spitey. We'll be hearin' from him as soon as he gets things yanked 'round into shape to suit him."

Still, as time passed and nothing happened, it looked less likely that we were going to have to fight for our holding ground. I don't know to this good day what made Bullerton so slow in bringing up his army, but it was high noon, and Daddy and I were eating a cold luncheon, with the shaft-house door-sill for a seat, when we saw the army coming. It was a straggling gang of perhaps a dozen men; we couldn't count them accurately because the road on the bench wound in and out among the trees.

They came up within easy rifle shot and pitched their camp, if you could call it that, in a little glade. At that distance we could see that they were armed, but, of course, we couldn't tell what kind of guns they had. After they had taken possession of the small open space, two of them set to work to build a cooking fire.

At the half in the glade one of the party—Bullerton, we guessed it was—broke a branch from a pine, stripped the twigs from it, and made it a flag-staff for his white handkerchief. Under this flag of truce he and two of his men came on, leaving their guns behind. There was a climb of about thirty feet, maybe, coming up from the bench to the ledge upon which the mine buildings stood, so we got a fairly good look at the peace party before it came within talking distance. Bullerton still had a slight touch of the wry-neck, and the devil-may-care jauntiness which had been his chief characteristic as a guest of the Twomblys had been wiped from his face and manner like a picture from a black-board.

As the three of them topped the rise in the ore road I reached behind me and got one of the Winchesters.

"That's near enough!" I called out. "Do your talking from there, if you've anything to say."

The delegation halted and Bullerton took a paper from his pocket.

"I'm serving legal notice upon you, Bullerton," he said, waving the paper at me, "and I have two witnesses here, as the law requires. I represent the Cinnabar Mining company of Cripple Creek. You are trespassing on our property and I am making a formal demand for possession."

"So that's the new wrinkle, is it?" I laughed. "I was hoping you might spring something a little more original. How are you going to prove ownership?"

"The burden of proof isn't on us; it's on you!" he ripped out. "You haven't a shadow of claim to this mine. I've got your so-called deed right here"—and he shook that at us. "It's a forgery; a clumsy, childish forgery that wouldn't impose upon a blind man! We can send you to the rock pile on the strength of it if we want to!"

Since he had stolen the deed out of my pocket, I thought, of course, that he was just bluffing about its being a forgery. He must have known perfectly well that it wasn't. But Daddy was whispering in my ear as he sat the estate of Melissa T. Sprague, deceased. On reading and filing the duly verified petition of William Steward, son, praying that administration of said estate may be granted to Nelson Magraw or some other suitable person, and that appraisers and commissioners be appointed.

It is ordered that the 9th day of February next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Probate office, be appointed for hearing said petition.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published three successive weeks previous to said time of hearing in The Ypsilanti Record, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Washtenaw.

behind me, something like this: "Gosh-all-Friday, Stannie, he's got you goin'! He's made a copy of the deed and thrown the 'riginal away—burnt it up, 'r somethin'!"

"You have it all your own way, Bullerton—or you think you have," I told him; and if I didn't get all of the self-confidence into the words that I tried to, I am persuaded that he didn't know the difference. "I might even concede that you have everything but the mine itself. If you want that, you may come and take it; but you'll permit me to say that when you break into this shaft-house there will be fewer people alive on Cinnabar mountain than there are at the present moment. I shall quite possibly be one of the dead ones, but before I go out I shall do my best to make you another."

"All right," he snapped back; "you're speaking for yourself, and that's your privilege. But how about you, Twombly? This is no quarrel of yours. Suppose you go over yonder to your cabin and stay out of the fight. Nobody wants to hurt you."

That put it pretty squarely up to me, too, so I turned to the old man at my side.

"It's good advice, Daddy," I said; "and this isn't your quarrel, Yerd better duck while you can."

Daddy Hiram made no reply at all to me; didn't pay any attention to me. Instead, he stood up on the door-sill and shook his fist at Bullerton.

"I been lookin' for you and your kind of a crowd for a year back, Charley Bullerton, and drawin' pay for doin' it!" he shrielled. "Stannie, here, says if you want this mine you can come and take it, and by gum-mies, I say them same identical words!"

"All right," said Bullerton again. "But it's only fair to say that we outnumber you six to one, and we've got the law, and a few deputy sheriffs, on our side. You two haven't as much show as a cat in hell without claws, and when the circus is over, you'll both go to jail, if there's enough left of you to stand the trip." Then, as he was turning to go he flipped the deed into the air so that it fell at our feet. "You may have that," he sneered. "We'd like nothing better than to have you produce it in court."

It didn't seem just fitting to let him have the last word, so I pitched a small ultimatum of my own after him as he headed his two scoundrelly-looking "witnesses" into the downward road.

"One thing more, Bullerton," I called out. "Your flag of truce holds only until you get back to your army. If you or any of your men are in sight of Cinnabar property ten minutes after you reach your camp, we open fire."

Since the truce was thus definitely ended, we retired into our fortress and put up the bars. As we were closing the doors and making everything snug I asked Daddy what kind of human timber Bullerton was likely to have in his army, and if there were any chance that his boast about having deputy sheriffs in the crowd was to be taken at its face value.

"There's nothin' to the deputy brag. Ike Beasley is the chief deputy for this end o' the county, and he'd be here himself if that was a posse comytaters down yonder. As for what he has got, there's no tellin'. Most likely he's picked up a fistful o' toughs and out-o'-work's down in Angels. There's always plenty o' drift o' that kind hangin' 'round a minin' camp."

"Fighters?" I queried.

"Oh, yes; I reckon so—if fightin' comes easier than workin'."

With the doors shut and barred I climbed up on our breastwork to bring my eyes on a level with one of the high window holes. The ten-minute ultimatum interval had come to an end, but the raiders were making no move to vacate the premises. On the contrary, their cooking fire was now burning briskly and they were apparently making leisurely preparations to eat. It fairly made me schoolboy furious to see those fellows calmly getting their noon meal ready and ignoring my warning.

"Hand me up one of those dynamite cartridges!" I barked at Daddy Hiram; and when he complied, I lighted a match and stuck it to the split end of the fuse. There was a fizz, a cloud of acrid smoke to make me turn my face away and cough, and then a frenzied yell from the old man.

"Throw it—good-gosh-to-Friday—throw it!"

I contrived to get it out through the window opening in some way, and lost my balance on the earth bags doing it.

"Throw it! Good-Gosh-to-Friday! Throw it!"

tumbling awkwardly into Daddy's arms as I fell. Coincident with the tumble, the stout old shaft-house rocked to the crash of an explosion that was still echoing from the cliffs of the mountain above when the soot fumes of the dynamite rose to float in at the window holes.

News of the death of Roland Strang, who died last week in Kansas City, Mo., came as a great shock to his many relatives and friends here. Mr. Strang, who was 20 years old, was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Strang and all his life had been a resident of Superior, until a few weeks ago, when he entered a mechanical school in Kansas City.
